STATE AS A BARKEEPER.

Rules Governing Liquor Sales Under South Carolina's New Law.

Columbia, S. C., May 21.—The dispensary law of this State will go into effect July 1. The rules regulating the dispensary have been issued. They provide that dispensaries must be closed at 6 p. m. the year round. Applicants for the purchase of liquor will not be received from any person who can not write or make a cross, and no application of the person can be filled oftener than once a day. A State constable or detective will be detailed to run down all persons suspected of infringing on the law. The prices of the various brands of liquor will be kept posted in each county dispensary, and the officer who deviates from the prices will be dismissed.

Gov. Tillman says the cheapest whiskey will be retailed at $3 a gallon, seventy-five cents a quart, forty cents a pint and twenty cents a half-pint, and only the purest whiskey will be sold. Under the law dispensaries are not to be established unless a majority of the freeholders (voters) petition for it. The Governor says the State will make $1 profit on every gallon of liquor sold, and estimates that the State will clear $500,000 the first year.

FAST TIME ON THE RIVER.

The Steamer Dick Fowler's 200 Miles From Cairo to Evansville.

Covered in Fourteen Hours and Forty-Seven Minutes.

The records made in March, 1871, by the sidewheel sterner Idlewild, when she steamed from Cairo to this city in 15 hours and 29 minutes has at last been broken.

The time was lowered yesterday by the swift Dick Fowler making the run in 14 hours and 47 minutes. The speed trial yesterday was the most interesting event that has occurred on the Ohio river since the Idlewild's run and attracted a great deal of interest, especially among river men.

Since the completion of the Fowler in this city several months ago there has been a great deal said regarding her speed, and while her owners were satisfied that she could lower the record of the famous Idlewild, the admirers of the latter boat contended that the Fowler could not beat the time which was made in 1871.

Another reason why the friends of the Fowler were anxious for her to make the run to this city, was that she might set the pegs for the steamer Royal.

WHICH HAS PASSED

every boat plying in this portion of the Ohio. Several weeks ago the owners of the Fowler determined to make the quick race from Cairo to this city against the Idlewild's time, and Saturday, May 20th, was set for the test.

Capt. Ben Howrred, who has charge of her, is recognizing as one of the most efficient and careful steamboat men on the western waters, and was instructed to prepare the Fowler for the trip.

On Friday night he took on a sufficient supply of the best grade of fuel to make the run without landing. He also took the precaution to carry enough freight to keep her in good trim.

At 1:54 yesterday morning Capt. Howard tapped the bell signaling the line thrown off, and the Dick Fowler started on her record making trip and running like a frightened deer.

Capt. Wm. Lowth, of this city an old steamboat commander in the Evansville and Cairo trade officiated as time-keeper on the trip and last evening favored the Courier with the time made from Cairo to the various points along the river. He also gives the time of the Idlewild on her famous run.

Following is a comparative statement of the runs of the two boats:

	Idlewild.	Fowler.

OTHER TIMERS

There were several others on board the boat who timed the Fowler on her run from Henderson to this city. Capt. Howard gave her time as 56 minutes from the time she passed the foot of Division street. Another time given on that run was 56 minutes and thirty seconds. Several citizens were notified of the time the Fowler passed Henderson and timed her to this city. Capt. John Gilbert and several others agree with the time reported by Capt. John Howard, 56 minutes, while Mr. Stallman, Mr. Will Gleichman and others report 57 minutes.

Capt. Lowth, however, states that he was very careful in timing the boat and would vouch for the time given in his report.

When the Royal departed for Henderson at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and it was learned that the Fowler had not yet been sighted at Henderson the interest increased.

AS IT WAS HOPED that the Royal would arrive at Henderson in time to return with the Fowler. The people on the wharf were greatly disappointed when a message was received here announcing that the Fowler had just passed Henderson as the Royal was landing at that point. There were none more disappointed than the gentlemen who took passage on the Royal expecting to witness an exciting race between the two boats.

Several gentlemen also timed the Royal and the Fowler from the time they came in sight around the point between the city until they reached Vine street.

The Fowler's time was seven minutes six and a half seconds. The same gentleman timed the Royal to have made the run in six minutes and twenty-three seconds. As the Fowler came in sight the John S. Hopkins City of Gwensboro and W. K. Phillips sounded a greeting whistle.

As she reached the foot of Division street a large banner was raised with the following inscription, "Dick Fowler, Cairo to Evansville, time 14 hours 47 minutes." As she passed the city wharf she was saluted by the whistles of all the boats at the landing.

After running a short distance above the wharf she rounded to and landed at the big wharfbait.

By comparison it will be seen that the Fowler lowered the Idlewild's record from Cairo to Metropolis 10 minutes, 15 minutes to Paducah, and 42 minutes to Evansville. Capt. Lowth reported that they were held back considerably by a head wind from Mt. Vernon to Henderson.—Evansville Courier.

Solidly Democratic.

A Washington letter says: "There is at least one man in office here who believes that Democrats alone should be given the plums. Judge Lochren, Commissioner of Pensions, has side-tracked the old rulings governing the appointments of medical boards. Instead of putting two Democrats and one Republican on a board as heretofore, he will now appoint three loyal sons of the Democracy. He thinks this will strike at the very root of the pension evil. He is cognizant of the fact that this new departure will cause a stir, but he will carry out his policy with firmness. "This one thing the Democrats have committed themselves to do," he is quoted as saying, "to lift as far as possible the rubbish which has been drifting into this pension cess pool. The party has committed itself to reform in this matter, and there is no better way to make a start than by having Democrats on these boards."

WIND AND HAIL.

Great Destruction to Property and Crops in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 20.—A terrific hail and rain storm, accompanied by high winds and vivid lightning, passed over a portion of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio this afternoon, doing great damage. The rain broke over Pittsburg a few minutes after 4 o'clock and raged for an hour, striking terror to the hearts of timid people and ruining $1,000,000 worth of property. The hail stones were the largest ever seen in this section, and varied in size from a hickory nut to a goose egg. Windows were broken all over the city, and every green-house suffered loss, running from $500 to $20,000. Valuable plants were destroyed, and gardeners say crops and fruit trees have been ruined. Through Oakland and the east end, and in Allegheny thousands of trees were stripped of their foliage.

There have been over 400 additions to the churches in this city and county as a result of the revival services begun by Sam Jones two weeks ago, and still in progress under the conduct of the home ministers. The meetings are well attended nightly, and will probably continue for two or three weeks longer.—Owensboro Inquirer.

THOUSANDS OF DUNKARDS.

They Are Arriving By the Train Load For the Muncie Meeting.

Muncie, Ind., May 21.—Three thousand Dunkards arrived on the trains today, which increased the crowd to 14,000. To-day they held their first grand meeting in the morning. Enoch Eby, a noted Dunkard from Kansas, addressed a crowd of about 15,000 this afternoon. D. L. Miller, of Mt. Morris, Ill., editor of the Gospel Messenger, delivered his famous lecture on Egypt to an audience of 18,000 Dunkards and citizens. He has just returned from his third trip to Egypt and other foreign countries. Last evening John Wize, of Pennsylvania, delivered an interesting address to a large audience. Their national business meeting will commence Tuesday, when it is expected that 20,000 will be present.

William Starke Rosecrans was born at Kingston, Ohio, Sep. 6, 1819, graduated at West Point Academy in 1842; was appointed Lieutenant of Engineers, and in 1843 became acting assistant Professor of Engineering at West Point, which post he held for several years and was subsequently assigned by the War Department to duty in the construction of docks, etc., at the Washington Navy Yard he resigned his commission in consequence of ill health in April 1854. In April 1854 he was chosen by Gen. McClellan as his chief engineer, and with the rank of Major. In June he was made Colonel of the 23 Ohio Volunteers. He contributed materially to the victory gained by Gen. McClellan at Rich Mountain, Virginia, July 24th. In March 1862 he was promoted to the rank of Major Gen. of Volunteers, commanded at the battles of Iuka, Sep 19, Corinth, Oct 4, Murfreesboro, Dec 31, and having gained decisive victories against superior forces in each he received the thanks of Congress for his conduct. After his defeat of Gen. Bragg at Murfreesboro, he held him in check of nearly six months. On June 23, 1863, he moved upon Gen. Bragg compelled him to retreat Chattanooga and ultimately succeeded in overcoming Gen. Bragg in a series of maneuvers. Gen. Rosecrans was son after-relieved of his command and spent some time at Cincinnati. He was assigned to the command of the Department of the Missouri Jan 28, 1864. He was relieved from active command Dec 9, 1864, and the close of the war made application for a year's leave of absence, which he spent in exploring the mining regions on the Pacific slope. In 1868 President Johnson appointed him United States Minister to Mexico, but he was recalled soon after President Grants accession. He was sent to Congress from California and was one of the principal opponents of the Grant retirement bill. His name was mentioned for Cleveland Cabinet and also for some of the more important foreign missions. He was made Register of the Treasury, vice B. K. Bruce resigned, on June 1st, 1885. Gen. Rosecrans has since resigned the above position on account of illness.

Whisky Wins at Princeton.

Princeton, Ky., May 20.—The notable prohibition election for this town is over. It was a quiet day. Both sides worked hard and no disturbance of any kind occurred. The result was a victory for the whisky people, as out of a vote of 258 a majority of 18 declared in favor of licensed saloons. This county has had prohibition for eight years, during which time a great deal of animosity has sprung up in the county, when prohibition prevailed, but this time the vote was confined to the corporate limits of this city, with the above results.

The Crittenden Press

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

Do not neglect the precinct meeting Saturday, June 3. A full attendance, free expression and fair count should be had.

"We won't coale," say our Crittenden county Third party friends. Stick to it boys, and it will make men as well as martyrs of you.

The Methodist ministers of New York, Brooklyn and vicinity have decided to withdraw the Methodist exhibit from the World's Fair because of the proposed Sunday opening.

It is said that Grover Cleveland will have nothing to do with anybody who ever intimated that he was a mugwump. If this be true Grover is coming around all right after all.

Our Third party friends are advertised to meet at Shady Grove, Saturday. They may nominate a candidate for the Senate, but there are some reasons for believing that they will not.

Fifteen desperate convicts in the Frankfurt penitentiary planned to escape a few days ago, and but for the timely discovery of their scheme they would have been blood shed. When searched dangerous knives were found on each one.

If you are not interested enough in the welfare of your party to attend the Democratic precinct meeting Saturday, June 3, never boast of your party fealty. If the right man is always nominated, he would always win the race. Go help to nominate the right man.

Last week the Morganfield Sun printed an article in which the writer attempted to pollute the murder of Archie Oliver. The article appears under a non de plum. The sentiments of the writer are anything but human, and no heart on the face of the earth will respond to such thoughts.

The United States purchased 6,550,000 acres of land from the Cherokee Indians, paying $295,736 cash, and agreeing to pay $6,300,000 in five equal installments, with 4 per cent interest. The Indians are asking Wall street to advance the money on the deferred payments, and as Wall street is anxious to get United States securities, poor Lo will doubtless get the cash on his claim.

Mrs. P. L. Claggett, a Kentucky woman, was admitted to the Cumberland Assembly at Little Rock, Ark., as a delegate. She enjoys the distinguished of being the first of her sex to be recognized as a business factor in the General Assembly of her church. Mrs. Woosley, a Kentucky woman, is the only one that has been ordained to preach by the Cumberland church. Kentucky's male orators, and fleet horses are not destined to monopolize forever, all the honors of the State.

Now and then a member of the Legislature has something to say about a dog law for the protection or promotion of the sheep industry. "Something to say" is about as far as the matters go, for not one of the solemn appears to have the nerve to introduce a bill putting the slightest tax on the most worthless canines, when, if the proper thing was done, a tax that would be the death knell of nine-tenths of the half million curs in the State, would go through both houses in the twinkling of an eye. Unshakable the sheep industry from the demands made upon it by the absolute worthless dogs, and it will bring hundreds of dollars into the State.

The question of opening the World's Fair on Sunday is still being discussed. It is gratifying to observe that Uncle Sam is standing firm for the sacredness of the Sabbath. Let us hope, that as a nation we will never so far forget the faith, of our fathers that it will become necessary for the hand that guided us through the perils of childhood to rebuke us as we merge into young manhood. Upon the simple and sublime faith of our fathers the foundation of a mighty superstructure was laid; the World's Fair is a great stone in the arch of the building to decorate it by mocking some of the cardinal rules of the faith that made the beginning, would be indeed a sacrilege. Let us remember the Sabbath to keep it holy.

Farmhand Post of the G. A. R., in New York some time ago passed and published resolutions touching our pension system. Among the sentiments expressed in those resolutions was this:

"The only veterans entitled to pensions are those who by wounds of disabilities incurred in the service of their country are prevented from earning a living in their respective calling as they might have done had such wounds or disabilities not been incurred, and whose circumstances are such as to justify them in calling on the country for aid and support."

They were called upon to retract, and refusing to do so the Commander in Chief of the National G. A. R., invalidated the charter of Farmhand Post, and demanded a surrender of the property of the post.

TOWN CHARTERS.

The Laws to Govern Sixty Class Towns.

The constitution divides the towns and cities of the Commonwealth into six classes. The incorporated towns of 1,000 inhabitants or less are in the sixth class. The legislature has passed the charter which will govern this class of towns. The following are the salient features of the new charters:

Section 1 gives the town power to contract, sue and be sued, to acquire property for municipal and cemetery purposes; to use, manage, improve, sell, rent, lease or convey such property.

Sections 2 and 3 provides for changing from one class to another.

Sections 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 provides for extending the boundaries, which is done by ordinance of the Board of Trustees. If there is opposition to a change in the corporate limits the circuit court settles the matter. If the court finds that less than 75 per cent of the people affected by the change are opposed, and that the change will be advantageous to the territory affected, the change will be made.

Sections 10, 11 and 12 provides for elections. The elections are to be held like state elections.

Sections 13, 14 and 15 provides for revenue and taxation. All real and personal estates within the city, and all personal estate of persons domiciled or actually residing in the city on the 15th day of September in the year in which the assessment shall be made, all corporations doing business in the town, and the franchises of same, shall be subject to taxation. The town shall have a lien for five years for all taxes due.

Sections 16 to 21 inclusive provides for the officers. A board of five trustees, a police judge, a treasurer, a clerk and a marshal are the officers provided for. The trustees, police judge and marshal shall be elected on Tuesday after the first Monday in November; the trustees for two, police judge and marshal for four years. The clerk and treasurer are appointed by the board, and are required to execute bond. The marshal is required to give a $1,000 bond; police judge must give bond for faithful performance of duty. The trustees can fill vacancies by appointment. The trustees must hold monthly meetings. A $1.50 poll tax and 50 cent property tax is the limit of taxation.

The license tax to sell spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall not be less than $150 nor more than $500, and the granting of license shall be under the exclusive control of the board of trustees, who may refuse to grant license in its discretion. The board has power to cause persons imprisoned under final judgments in police courts, or in default of payment of fine and costs, or either, imposed by said court, to labor on the streets until the imprisonment is satisfied or the fine and cost paid.

To incur a bonded indebtedness, two-thirds of the qualified voters of the town must vote for such an expenditure of money.

Section 31 provides for the expenditure of the public money in constructing or repairing streets, avenues, highways and public places.

The expense incurred in making and repairing side walks, and curbing, shall be paid by the owners of lands fronting and abutting thereon.

In all expenditures of money for public improvements, where the sum to be expended exceeds $100, the work shall be done by contract.

CHICAGO LETTER.

Our Special Correspondent Gives Some Advice to World's Fair Visitors.

Special Correspondence to Press.

Chicago, May 21.—When first I visited Crittenden some months since, I was struck with the small interest taken in the World's Fair, and I could only attribute this apathy to the people being too completely absorbed by their own home affairs. Upon my return to the same place I was surprised to find everyone interested and all those who can find the time to spare contemplating visiting the Windy City and seeing the most wonderful exposition of progress the world has ever seen.

It would be impossible to give a complete description of the fair or even several buildings in this letter, but I will endeavor to show how it can be visited at rather a small expense. Those who go with the intention of seeing it all in a day, or even a week, will be disappointed, but enough can be seen in six days to last a life time. If you have any acquaintances or friends in Chicago, it would be well to write them about a week prior to your departure for the fair requesting them to secure rooms and board for you and stating the price you wish to pay they will cheerfully do this, and when you arrive you can go to your apartments direct from the depot, saving both the time and expense of looking for a suitable place to go. You can board and have a pleasant room for $2 a day, and I think the following estimate will give you some idea of how to see the Fair economically:

Fare to Chicago and return,	$14.65.
Meals en route,	1.00.
Baggage wagon,	.50.
Board, 7 days, $2 per day,	14.00.
Six tickets to the Fair,	3.00.
Car fare, 2½ a day,	1.40.
Theatres, Foreign Villages, Buffalo Bills, Wild West, Hagahack Menagerie, Congress of World Banties, etc.,	5.00.
Total,	$39.55.

The above amount is necessary, but you can spend as much more as your means will allow on souvenirs, cigars, drinks (but not, I forgot that no one indulges in Marion, so you can leave that expense out), etc., etc.

So much for expense. Arriving in Chicago you can be met by your friend who will take you to your rooms, or if you have no acquaintances in the city, inquire of any police office and they will direct you which cars to take to reach your destination. I would advise you not to ask strangers, for you cannot tell to whom you are conversing. As an example, a friend of mine met a very pleasant and affable gentleman on the train who was journeying to Chicago. He was going to visit the Fair also, but had been in Chicago before and invited my friend to attend the theater, took him to supper and would not allow him to spend a cent. By this time my friend thought him a fine fellow, and all his suspicions, if he had any, had vanished. Well, they took in the theater, had several drinks, all of which the stranger paid for, and my friend had, as he termed it, a real nice time until he awoke the next morning in a strange hotel, his "friend" had disappeared, so had his watch, his money and a large amount of his confidence in human nature.

As a prominent farmer of Crittenden once remarked after taking too much corn juice, "it was a bad day for him," at least.

As I cannot describe the entire World's Fair in this letter, I will commence with one of the principal attractions that is out of the grounds. I will then lead you through Midway Plaisance, a wide boulevard half a mile long upon which all the foreign villages are located. These villages as you all know, depict the daily lives and avocations of the various nations. There is the Irish village where the sons and daughters of Erin live, work and have their pleasures just as they do in the "tight little Isle." Then the Dutch village, French, Dahomians; the latter inhabited by those belligerent Amazons, which have lately caused the French nation so much trouble; here is also to be found the Javanese, Chinese, and all other foreigners living as they do at home.

But what I started to tell you was about Buffalo Bill's Wild West show. I went there last week and after paying my fifty cents was ushered into a vast amphitheater where I procured a good seat. Below me was some five acres where the performance was to take place. Presently the cow boy band started up and from the opposite end of the pavilion dashed a troupe of South American Vandemos in native dress. Their feats of bareback riding were wonderful, and they ended by showing their powers; eleven men formed a pyramid and so grouped themselves that presently ten of them were all standing on one man, he standing erect and holding them up. Afterwards there was an exhibition of the cow boy and his bucking bronco, and as I have seen the cow boy in his native lair, I can vouch for its being realistic to a degree. Then came a troupe of Cosacks, those reckless, rough riders of Russia, who performed some wonderful feats. Following them were four veteran cavalry companies, Americans, Germans, English and French. These were regulars from their respective countries and went through a beautiful series of drills. After they had retired about one hundred Indians, resplendent in war paint, burst upon the view who went through a war dance, afterwards attacking the old Deadwood Stages which was resented in the regulation manner by the cow boys, headed by the old time scout Buffalo Bill. It was a good performance, and if you should come I am sure you will enjoy it as I did.

I will tell you know in my next letter of some other interesting sights, and hope you will, many of you, find time to come yourselves.

COLONEL SPOON.

A Reminiscence of Col. J. K. Huey.

The Paducah Sunday Visitor has the following: Among the many brave deeds credited to the late Col. J. K. Huey, of Smithland, who was always noted for his fearless daring, is the arrest of a notorious outlaw named Dewees during the war at Como, Miss.

Dewees was a guerilla, and had won a big reputation as a fighter and a murderer. He was large and powerfully built, and all efforts to arrest him had proved unsuccessful. The men he had slain were numbered by the dozens, and he had even been known to whip as many as six men in one fight.

Dewees being a very much sought for individual by the confederate army, Col. Huey undertook the job of capturing him without assistance. He went to Como one day and found Dewees in a store. The colonel made some purchases, remaining in the store some time at the risk of being suddenly shot down by Dewees without warning. The crowd fully expected such an occurrence to take place, but they were doomed to disappointment. Before it could scarcely be realized the fuzzle of a pistol greeted the orbs of vision of the guerilla as the firm voice of Col. Huey sounded "throw up your hands."

It is needless to say that Dewees obeyed without a word, and soon he was disarmed and a pair of hand-cuffs were on his wrists. Col. Huey took his prisoner to a near town preparatory to taking him to Mobile with a number of others to be shot. While at this town Dewees made his escape by braining a guard with a rock, and has never been heard of since.

Fred McNeil who killed his father-in-law, Thos. C. Littlepage, at Madisonville in the fall of '91, was convicted for murder in the first degree by the jury Monday night and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. The accused had the best counsel that could be procured, but it was a case of cold-blooded homicide that argument could not mitigate. McNeil, the brother of August McNeil, a well-known wood cut artist of Chicago and his family is a good one. His wife stuck to him all the way through, although he slew her father.—Henderson Journal.

Da Pont, the Louisville millionaire, died last week, and there appear to be a mystery surrounding his demise. It seems from the reports that he expired in a house of ill fame, and some reports have it that he was shot. The Louisville strenuously deny the rumors that tarnish the name of the famous millionaire.

Francis Mulligan the Paducah wife murderer, must hang. Gov. Brown refuses to interfere with the work of the hangman in his behalf.

Under the new law Marion could take a vote on the liquor question. What the result would be, can not be told. About the only thing that can be said without fear of successful contradiction, is that a man need not die of a snakebite, if getting a drink of liquor in Marion will save him.

Ex-Sheriff Cruce presented his delinquent tax list to the County Judge Monday for final adjustment. The list embraces 457 tax payers. Of this number 176 have moved out of the county since the assessments. Forty five of the delinquents are colored.

The list usually ranges from 450 to 600. There is some talk of having the list published in both local papers. If such a thing were done, the public would be surprised to find some names on the list of those who do not pay their taxes and are proof against the sheriff's levy. There is no question but that the publication of the list one year would find it materially diminished in number the next.

There are men on the list who should be excused from paying taxes; they are men who have met with misfortunes, have no means, are broken down in health and have helpless families depending upon them. Such should be excused.

There is not much excuse however for hale, hearty fellows, failing or refusing to help bear a small portion of the necessary county expenses. Hereafter the poll tax will not exceed $1.50 as the property holder must pay on his property as well as his head to assist in county matters, the usually large list of delinquent poll tax payers should be diminished.

Messrs. H. E. Rice and A. E. Ambrose, Kelsey's crack bicyclists, made the round trip to Crittenden Springs Sunday. The entire day was not consumed in traveling either; the boys spent twenty minutes at Marion for dinner.

Wants Five Thousand. Charles Higgins, a colored citizen, has filed suit against Wm. Henry Clement, another brother in black, for the seduction of his daughter Mary Higgins. The petition alleges that the perjury of said Clement has deprived the said Higgins of the services of his daughter, blighted her character and brought shame upon the family, and the plaintiff, therefore wants $5,000 damage. The defendant is a great light in his church and the filing of the suit and information therein contained will doubtless cause a storm to rage around the head of the unwary William Henry.

Four Legged Turkey. Princeton, Ky., May 20.—A monstrosity in the shape of a young turkey was hatched on the farm of J. W. Hollingsworth, three miles south of here yesterday. It has four well developed legs and uses them all in walking, which gives the young fowl a locomotion like unto that of a real quadruped. The legs are situated on each side of the breast bone, two on a side. The turkey is perfectly healthy and runs around with the brood.

CRITTENDEN SPRINGS.

The Well Known and Popular Watering Place Passes into New Hands.

The Beginning of What Promises To Be The Most Successful Season in its History.

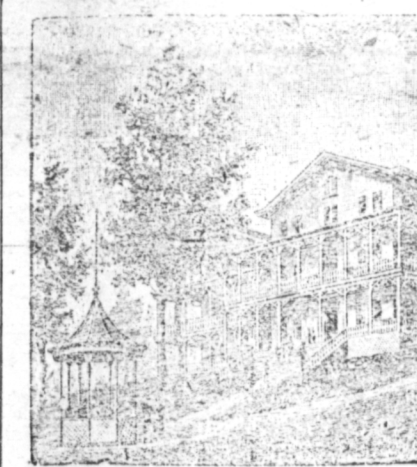

A visit to Crittenden Springs this week showed that the new manager and new proprietor mean to make the popular watering place more attractive, if possible, than ever. As is already known, this valuable property now belongs to Mr. S. M. Jenkins, of Henderson. He is a man of large means and metropolitan ideas. For years he has traveled over the South and West, and has seen much of the best hostleries of the country, especially those of "some of the well-known watering places." His ambition is to make Crittenden Springs the equal, if not the superior, of any in the country. With this end in view no means will be spared.

Mr. J. S. Smith, until recently a well-known traveling man, has been engaged as manager for the season of 1893, and he is now on the grounds "putting the house in order." The magnificent hotel with one hundred rooms, is being furnished up inside and out, and the beautiful grounds are being touched up with the skill of a landscape artist. Every convenience known to the modern hotel will add to the comfort and pleasure of those who are so fortunate to choose Crittenden for their outing this year. There are electric bells in every room, tasty bath rooms for hot or cold, fresh or sulphur water, baths; a fine billiard hall with three superb tables, a handsome ten-pin alley, lawn-tennis ground. A splendid band has been engaged for the entire season; an admirable dancing hall is being arranged, cinque rooms are being prepared. The parlors are magnificently furnished, the bed-rooms are marvels of beauty and comfort. A wine room is one of the new features. A system of water-works is being put in, and high wind mills will force the water to every floor in the building.

The culinary department of the huge establishment will be in the hands of skilled artisans, and in every appointment no pains and no means will be spared to make it reach as near perfection as possible.

The acres upon acres of woodlands with their great shade trees, merry rills, mossy banks, charming walks, lovely mountain views make the place one of the loveliest in the whole country. While the $60,000 or $70,000 spent, this has added to the beauty of the place, of the new management, one realizes that an era of unsurpassed popularity has at last dawned upon the famous springs, which in ante bellum days, numbered its guests and friends by the hundreds. It is fortunate that the property has fallen into such good hands, and before many seasons, Crittenden will stand at the head of the watering places.

It will only be a matter of time when the P. M. & O. R. railroad is built, and then Mr. Jenkins has a fortune indeed, but with the energy and faith that always presages success he has gone to work to make the Springs superior to the necessity of a railroad. The natural advantages are with him, and the popularity already achieved, shows that he has practically won.

Upon the whole the future of Crittenden Springs never was brighter, and the advent of new and younger men into the enterprise, means that it will rapidly go to the front as a watering place. People who go to Crittenden this year will find every thing to their liking.

In addition to its unequalled waters, the land is rich in minerals, which fact has long ago been demonstrated. The advent of the railroad will awaken this wealth into life.
